D. APPLETON & COMPANY'S New Books

"A BOOK WHICH WILL BE READ."

COMMODORE PAUL JONES

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY, author of "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Seas," "The Grip of Honor," etc. A new volume in the Great Commanders Series, edited by General James Grant Wilson. With photogravure portrait and maps. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Here is the life story of Paul Jones told in a manner befitting the subject. It is needless to say that Mr. Brady is the one writer to place this picturesque figure before the general reader. He has not clogged the flow of his narrative by an accumulation of dry facts and dates and names. He has cleared up puzzling points, and indicated clearly the historical relations of his theme, and he has presented the life story of supreme value as a succinct biography, and as fascinating as a romance throughout. There are biographies representing accumulations of facts and dates, which linger on the shelves of a few libraries for occasional consultation, and there are biographies which are read, enjoyed and talked about. Mr. Brady's books are these which are read. A happier union of author and subject has rarely been exhibited.

MAX PEMBERTON'S NEW ROMANCE.

THE FOOTSTEPS OF A THRONE

A Romance by MAX PEMBERTON. Uniform with "Kronstadt" and "The Phantom Army." Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Max Pemberton's brilliant pen has shown that "the true romancer" lives to-day. Mr. Pemberton chooses the present and not the historical past, and he proves that the life of to-day may suggest romance, mystery, incident and adventure in as fascinating forms as the life of the days of lance and armor. His new novel deals with Russian social and political intrigue, a field wherein he is fully at home. There is a charming love story which is carried through a stirring series of adventures to a fortunate end. Mr. Pemberton's romance, which is full of life and vivid in its unflagging interest, shows perhaps the highest mark which he has reached in his successful career as a romancer.

CLEARING HOUSES

Their History, Methods and Administration. By JAMES G. CANNON, Vice-President of the Fourth National Bank of the City of New York. Illustrated. Crown 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

This is the first book to give, in a single volume, a history of the clearing houses of the United States and a description of their methods. A knowledge of the workings of these great organizations is of obvious importance to bankers and those practically interested in finance, and also to business men in general and to students of financial subjects. Descriptions of some of the chief foreign clearing houses are included in this succinct and valuable book, which has the double value of proceeding from a recognized authority, and of being the first comprehensive treatment of the subject in a single book.

THE STORY OF THE ALPHABET

By EDWARD CLODD. A new volume in Appletons' Library of Useful Stories. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

This concise and informing little book presents an admirable résumé of the best knowledge of a subject obviously of universal interest, but usually difficult of explanation in an adequate way.

PROF. SHALER'S NEW BOOK.

THE INDIVIDUAL

A Study of Life and Death. By Prof. N. S. SHALER, of Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The lucidity and suggestiveness of Prof. N. S. Shaler's writings, whether they are expositions of scientific themes or discussions which touch upon sociological topics, will induce a special interest in his remarkable book. "The Individual: A Study of Life and Death," which is a striking and noble presentation of the subject of death from a fresh point of view.

KING STORK of the NETHERLANDS

A Romance of the Days of the Dutch Republic. By ALBERT LEE, author of "The Key of the Holy House," and "A Gentleman Pensioner." No. 292, Appletons' Town and Country Library. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Mr. Lee has earned a brilliant reputation within the last two years as a novelist of the Dutch Republic. His new romance, with its thrilling tale of the betrayal of William and his people by the faithless ruler in whom they trusted, sketches in a singularly vivid fashion a chapter of history which cannot be read without deep interest and emotion.

Literary Friends and Acquaintance

A PERSONAL RETROSPECT OF AMERICAN AUTHORSHIP

By WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS

THERE are few persons living who have known intimately so many of the great men of our literature as Mr. HOWELLS. In these recollections he tells of his meetings with EMERSON, HAWTHORNE, LOWELL, WALT WHITMAN, and dozens of others whose names are familiar in every American home.

The book is not only an intensely interesting collection of reminiscences, but a most valuable contribution to the history of our literature.

Regular Edition

With many illustrations by W. T. SMEDLEY. Crown 8vo, cloth, ornamental, green and gold, uncut edges, gilt top. Price, $2.50.

Autograph Edition

A specially bound, absolutely limited edition of 150 copies, autographed by the author. Price, $5.00 each.

Each volume is to be numbered and orders will be filled as received. A reasonable number will be put aside to fill orders from distant points and we reserve the right to apportion quantities.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just ready a romance of the days of Charles I. and Cromwell in England and Ireland, entitled "Dauntless, a Tale of a Lost Cause," by Ewan Martin, author of "The Knight of King's Guard," which ranked among the best novels last year.

HARPER & BROTHERS will have ready shortly "Literary Friends and Acquaintance," a personal retrospect of American authorship, by William Dean Howells, who has known intimately more of the great men and women of literature than any other writer now living. There will be a regular edition with illustrations by W. T. Smedley, and also a specially bound autograph edition of 150 numbered copies. They have just ready "Expatriates," a novel, by Lilian Bell; "The Pageantry of Life," by Charles Whibley; and "The Moon Metal," by Garrett P. Serviss.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have just added to their exquisite New Century Library Dickens's "Dombey and Son," and "David Copperfield"; also, Thackeray's "The Paris Sketch Book," etc., and "The Book of Snobs." Eight volumes still remain to be published of Thackeray's works. The volumes of this series appear monthly in three bindings, and in each one are irresistible. The books are printed in the same type as the edition of Thackeray issued by Smith, Elder & Co., but owing to the thin paper used in printing they can be made about one-third less in height and fully two-thirds less in thickness.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "Tommy and Grizel," J. M. Barrie's latest novel, which is considered by many competent to judge to be his masterpiece. Upwards of 20,000 copies were ordered three weeks in advance of publication. They have also just ready the charming holiday edition of Thomas Nelson Page's story, "The Old Gentleman of the Black Stock," with eight full-page illustrations in color by Howard Chandler Christy; also, Paul B. Du Chaillu's new book for young people, "The World of the Great Forest—how animals, birds, reptiles and insects talk, think, work and live," with fifty illustrations by C. R. Knight and J. H. Gleeson.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY announce an important holiday book on "Famous American Belles of the Nineteenth Century," the style and merit of which may be tested by reading Virginia Tatnall Peacock's article on Miss Mary Virginia Leiter (now Baroness Curzon of Hedleston) in Lippincott's Magazine for October. Another book of far-reaching interest will be "Rambles in Colonial Byways," by Rufus Rockwell Wilson. In fiction the newest books are John Finnemore's historical novel of Cromwell's time, entitled "The Red Men of the Dusk"; "Marr'd in Making," by Baroness von Hutton; and "Fate the Fiddler," by H. C. McIlwaine, dealing with questions of the big problems of life.

D. APPLETON & Co. have ready "Commodore Paul Jones," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, who has struck a tone befitting the subject, and is said to clear up puzzling points in this succinct biography which is as fascinating as a romance; "Clearing Houses: their history, method and administration," by James G. Cannon, Vice-President of the Fourth National Bank of the City of New York; and "The Individual—a study of life and death," by Prof. N. S. Shaler. In lighter vein they have "The Story of the Alphabet," by Edward Clodd, the new volume in Appleton's Library of Useful Stories; "The Footsteps of a Throne," a new volume by Max Pemberton; and "King Stork of the Netherlands," a romance of the days of the Dutch Republic, by Albert Lee.

Buchan, J: The half-hearted. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1900. c. 4+367 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Beautiful Scotch scenery and an original Scotch hero make "The half-hearted" readable. A most elaborate education and abundant means have given a young Scotchman such an all-round view of all things that he is never ready to make a quick decision or take advantage of circumstances. In love and politics this state of mind proves fatal. In later life in India he proves himself the man for the hour of his country's greatest need.

Buckland, Francis T. Curiosities of natural history. N. Y., Macmillan, 1900. 4 v., 21+362; 14+360; 16+353; 11+365 p. il. 12°, cl., ea., $1.

Buell, A: C. Paul Jones; founder of the American navy: a history. N. Y., Scribner, 1900. c. 2 v., 15+328; 7+373 p. pors. D. cl., $3.

This new life of the commander of the Ranger and Bon Homme Richard will no doubt be accepted as the definitive one. It is the result of fourteen years' researches in England, France and St. Petersburg, as well as in this country, compiled from original sources—Jones's letters and journals, contemporary pamphlets, memoirs, etc. It reveals many hitherto unknown chapters of a remarkable career, of which the most romantic figure in American Revolutionary history is the hero. The appendix contains an account of the portraits of Paul Jones, the rosters of the Ranger, the Bon Homme Richard and the Serapis, and a list of works consulted (4 p.) Index.

Burns, Rob. Complete poetical works; with biographical introd., notes and glossary. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., 1900. c. 2 v., 38+220; 221+442 p. il. por. O. cl., per set, $4.

The present two-volume edition consists of a text carefully compared with all the most reliable editions, and is claimed to be the completest ever published, as it contains several poems recently discovered. A carefully written biographical sketch is based on authentic records, and places the poet's life and character before the reader in a kindly light. There is a full index to the poems and also an index to the first lines. Also a full and excellent glossary.

Burroughs, J: Squirrels and other fur-bearers; il. in col. after Audobon, and a frontispiece from life. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1900. c. 4+149 p. D. cl., $1.

For young people as well as old the author has gathered most of his scattered notes on our smaller mammals—the squirrels, the chipmunk, the woodchuck, the rabbit, the muskrat, the skunk, the fox, the weasel, the mink, the raccoon, the porcupine, the opossum, the wild mice—and has added to them much interesting new matter. The book is not a formal natural history, but rather a series of reminiscences about many of these little animals who were friends of Mr. Burroughs.

Contents: Mrs. Smith; Stepping backwards; A foggy day; Mr. Timmins; Playing with fire; Neighborly gossip; Barter; The course of true love; Hiding out; In Maria's garden; The summer is ended; A white day; Now is the winter of our discontent; Sally; Old times; Getting an education; Like other children.

Chambers, Rev. Arthur. Man and the spirual world as disclosed by the Bible. Phil., G: W. Jacobs & Co., [1900.] c. 289 p. D. cl., $1.25.

What is man, and what is his destiny after death, with some characteristics of the spiritual world is the subject; the author draws his answers from the Bible. Intended to be a companion book to "Our life after death," from his pen.

Chaucer, Geoffrey. Complete works; introd. by T: R. Lounsbury. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., 1900. c. 2 v., 18+464; 2+465-877 p. il. por. facsimiles, O. cl., per set, $4.

The text printed is that which Professor Skeat has approved. The introduction, which is a full and complete relation of all that is known of Chaucer's life, and an elaborate exposition of the influence of his literary work, as well as a study of his style and language, is from the pen of one of the most distinguished Chaucer students in modern times. Has a full and carefully edited glossary of such words as are obselete or are used in an archaic sense.

Clark, Imogen. The heresy of Parson Medlicott. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., 1900. c. 3-26 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c.

A plea for tolerance in the form of a story. Parson Medlicott broadens mentally as he grows old, and condones many innocent acts he had previously condemned. Some of his parishioners find fault with him and criticise him, but the old man is unmindful of the rancor, and he pursues the even tenor of his way with the trusting heart of a child.

Douglas, Amanda Minnie. A little girl in old Washington. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1900. c. 4+319 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The "little girl" of this story is Annis Bouvier, whose mother makes a second marriage when Annis is about six years old. Annis gets a new father in Squire Mason, whom she learns to love, and the Mason children receive their new mother with flattering enthusiasm. The doings of the young people, who fall in love and marry as they grow up, and go to Washington and attend balls at the White House, are interestingly related. The story opens in Virginia just before the war of 1812.

Doyle, Arthur Conan. The sign of the four. N. Y., A. L. Burt, 1900. 4+364 p. 12°, (Home lib.) cl., $1.

Ebers, Georg Moritz. In the desert. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1900. c. 2+329 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The heroine is a young German woman, of independent fortune left an orphan at an early age. She is clever and pretty, highly educated, and self-willed. Determining to "live out her nature," she breaks away from civilization and lives in a tent in the Arabian desert, with a companion and a maid. Here she is sought for by young Prof. Hartwang to whom she had once been betrothed. She refuses to return with him to their old home, frankly acknowledging her love for a Bedouin who has been her guide. While the story has a humorous ending, it also teaches that the greatest happiness is found in self-sacrifice.

Farrar, F: W., (Dean.) The life of lives: further studies in the life of Christ. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1900. c. 16+444 p. O. cl., $2.50.

Dean Farrar has not attempted to traverse the same ground as in his "Life of Christ," but has treated the subject in a topical, rather than in a consecutive manner. Some of the chapter subjects are: Our Lord's human aspect; The language He spoke; The age in which He lived; Lessons of the unrecorded years; Judaism; The first anecdote; Methods of evangelization; Forms of teaching, their uniqueness; Jesus and children; The gladness of Jesus; The apostles, etc.

Ferguson, C: The religion of democracy. San Francisco, Cal., D. P. Elder and Morgan Shepard, 1900. c. 160 p. D. pap., 50 c.

The aim is to show, says the author, that Americanism is a religion, that the social structure in this country is based upon the axioms of a faith which is the quintessence of historical Christianity, that the historic Church—having served as a mighty causeway between the old-world regime and the new—here merges its structure into an identity with the structure of the secular order, that Americanism is in its nature revolutionary and that American principles, social and political, are sharply antithetical to European principles.

Fetherston, Florence C. A guide to pyrography or woodburning; for the use of students and amateurs. Phil., F. Weber & Co., [1900.] c. 69 p. il. 12°, cl., 60 c.

The word pyrography means literally fire writing. By means of a heated instrument effects of light and shade are produced by scorching the surface of wood, leather, ivory, velvet, etc. The object of this little book is to show how to handle the platinum points and to make one familiar with the art of pyrography—also called "poker work" and "fire etching."

Finnemore, J: The red men of the dusk: a romance; il. by Lawson Wood. Phil., Lippincott, 1900. 3-328 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The fastnesses of Wales form the background for a novel of Puritans and exiled cavaliers during the rule of Cromwell in 1660. The story of love and danger is told by a loyal subject of King Charles II.

Harper, W: R., and Burgess, I: B. Elements of Latin. N. Y., Amer. Book Co., [1900.] c. 320 p. map, D. cl., $1.

The more important differences between this book and the authors' "Latin Primer," published in 1891, are as following: 1. Instead of beginning at once upon the text of Cæsar sixteen introductory lessons are given to carefully selected forms and rules. 2.

When the text of Cæsar is taken up, it is so simplified that no large number of new forms or syntactical rules will meet the pupil in any one lesson. 3. The text is chosen especially for its simplicity and interest. 4. Greater attention has been given to the vocabulary. 5. The number of topics treated has been reduced, and every topic when introduced is treated with unusual fulness.

An unusual marriage made by a beautiful middle-class English girl to a misanthropic and eccentric nobleman is the basis of a pretty love story, which has its scene almost entirely in the ancient manor that had been the home of the Stratheldons for many generations. The manor is reported to be haunted, and there is a mystery and the suspicion of a crime clinging to the master of the manor. The story is evolved through many dramatic scenes. A true affection is the magic which dispels the mystery, and conquers the morbid nature of Lord Stratheldon.

Lewis, Charlton M. The beginnings of English literature. Bost., Ginn, 1900. c. 11+193 p. D. cl., 95 c.

This book has been written to supply what the author's experience has shown to be a real need. Its purpose is to give to those who do not, for the present at least, require an intimate acquaintance with old and middle English authors, such a knowledge of their characteristics and historical relations as may serve for an introduction to the study of the Elizabethan and later periods. The author is Emily Sanford professor of English literature in Yale University.

A collection of amusing sketches embodying the adventures and active conversations of Mr. Dobley and his wife. They originally appeared as a series of Sunday stories in the New York Sun.

Maxwell, Mrs., [Mary Eliz. Braddon.] The infidel: a romance. N. Y., Harper, 1900. c. 2+454 p. D. cl., $1.50.

William Thornton and his daughter Antonia pursued the profession of letters in London when George the Second was King. They wrote plays and essays, made translations and furnished smart paragraphs for the society journals. Antonia had been brought up like a boy, early fed upon Voltaire and taught to discredit all creeds. With all her lack of faith she is a beautiful character, with high ideals of right. She is shown under a strong temptation, from which she escapes untouched. The time is the dawn of Methodism in England, Wesley and his followers being strong elements in the story.

Opens in the South African gold mines. A man supposed to be dead is personated by a friend, whose career is interrupted by the re-appearance of the dead man. A happy, wholly unexpected ending follows a most complicated plot.

Mikszáth, Kálmán. St. Peter's umbrella: a novel; from the Hungarian, by B. W. Worswick; introd. by R. Nisbet Bain. N. Y., Harper, 1900. c. 3-290 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The umbrella in question is a ragged red affair, which was according to the village gossip of Glogova bestowed upon the parish priest's baby sister by St. Peter. This umbrella and a brass caldron are the fetishes of the story. The caldron causes strife in several families and turmoil in many parishes. The history of the umbrella is traced to its original owner.

Morrison, Arthur. Cunning Murrell. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1900. c. 7+288 p. D. buckram, $1.50.

The author of "Tales of mean streets" forsakes the London slums for the little village of Hadleigh forty years ago. At that time it was a country in the middle of the century—where people were still apt to be "swum" for witchcraft, and smuggling French brandy was the most lucrative occupation that offered; Cunning Murrell, wise man and witch-finder, is the chief figure in a story of by-gone beliefs that now seem mediæval almost.

The writer of these amusing reminiscences was the great-granddaughter of the last king of Poland. Born Anna Tyszkiewicz, she married at twenty-six the Count Potocka. Her life was spent at Warsaw and Paris, meeting many historical personages of Poland, Russia and France. Her early remembrances go back to 1794 to the third partition of Poland, and the incorporation of what was left of that country with the Russian Empire. She died at the age of ninety-one in Paris, her salon there being one of the notable ones of the Second Empire. She met Napoleon in Warsaw and afterwards in Paris, and gives amusing details of the Emperor and his family, Marie Louise, etc. Illustrated by many portraits, views, etc.

Ridge, W. Pett. A breaker of laws. N. Y., Macmillan, 1900. c. 3+311 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The "breaker of law" is a smart young London burglar introduced while robbing a philanthropist, who finds in him a "human document," and lets him off. He marries her servant and reforms. But the hereditary criminal strain leads him into his old habits. His wife is ignorant of his life, finally believes him dead when he is in prison, and he passes out of her life forever. Schemes of reform and criminal law are suggestively discussed.

Roland de la Platière, Manon Jeanne Philipon. Private memoirs; ed. with an introd. by E: Gilpin Johnson. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1900. c. 6-381 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The translation which is reprinted in this volume in a revised form and after comparison, was made from Bosc's original edition of the memoirs, and was published at London in 1795, within two years after Madame Roland's death by the guillotine on November 8, 1793. "The private memoirs of Madame Roland" is a favorite French classic which, though widely quoted in historical literature, has not for many years been procurable in an English version.

Rouech, August E., comp. Rouech's manual of the rights, duties, and liabilities of notaries public under the common law as modified by the statutes of Michigan. Detroit, Mich., Richmond & Backhus Co., 1900. c. 3+184 p. O. cl., $1.10.

Savory, Isabel. A sportswoman in India: personal adventures and experiences of travel in known and unknown India. Phil., Lippincott, 1900. 9+408 p. il. O. cl., $4.50.

The narrative takes one through some of the most noted scenery and places of India—Peshawur, the Khyber Pass, Dalhousie, Chamba, Kashmir, Delhi, etc., and gives impressions both of native and Anglo-Indian life. The hunting experience includes pig-sticking, hunting for red and black bears, tiger-shooting, hunting elephants, and some smaller game.

Shakespeare, W: Beginner's Shakespeare: No. 1, Comedy of the tempest; abridged and ed. by Sarah Willard Hiestand; il. after drawings by F. A. M. Retzsch. Bost., Heath, 1900. c. 9+98 p. por. D. (Heath's home and school classics, no. 1.) cl., 25 c.; pap., 15 c.

This volume of Shakespeare is the first of the works of the dramatist to be edited for young people by Sarah Willard Hiestand; it is also the initial number of Heath's "Home and school classics," which embraces "Story school classics for children," and "Young readers classics." The "Home and school classics" contains already a number of books chosen from the world's classics; it will be added to in the future regularly. As a rule the books will be printed entire; where expurgation may be required it will be done with as little change or omission as possible. Each book contains or will contain a brief account of its author, and of the noteworthy facts in connection with the work itself. See other titles in scenes under Young, Mulock, Goldsmith, Hamerton, Browne.

Stannard, Mrs. Henrietta Eliza Vaughan, ["John Strange Winter," pseud.] The Binks family: the story of a social revolution. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1900.] c. 2-232 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Mr. Binks was a rich dairyman and he and his wife were characters. Their daughter married Tom Knipp, who knew nothing of his origin. His father-in-law was satisfied, but his sister-in-law was not, and the efforts of the wife to give her husband a standing in the family lead to surprising results. The conversations show the old skill of the author of "Bootles' baby."

Stannard, Mrs. Henrietta Eliza Vaughan, ["John Strange Winter," pseud.] A self-made countess; the justification of a husband. Phil., Lippincott, 1901 [1900.] c. 317 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Gives a graphic account of a scheming English widow's manœuvres to get husbands for three penniless girls. The youngest and the beauty helps a duke's son to propose. Her efforts to make herself a place among countesses by birth make the story. She follows various fads and charitable schemes and finally strikes something original.

Stoney, Emily M. A. Bacteriology and surgical technique for nurses. Phil., W. B. Saunders & Co., 1900. 190 p. il. pls. 12°, cl., net, $1.25.

Strong, Josiah. Expansion under the new world-conditions. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1900.] c. 6-310 p. map, D. cl., $1.

The author of "Our country" and "The new era" favors expansion, but dwells especially upon the great responsibilities incurred by England and the United States in their attempts to civilize the world, while opening markets for home produce and manufactures. He speaks forcibly upon the crime of selling liquor to conquered nations in the tropics. He foresees that England and the United States will stand together for true Christian civilization.

The profession of chemical engineer is a recent one in this country, and there are very few who lay claim to the title. It means the person wearing it shall be proficient in two distinct professions—he must be a chemist as well as a mechanical engineer. The author points out the importance of teaching chemical engineering in our universities and the requirements of those who would make it a profession.

Tomlinson, Everett Titsworth. In the hands of the redcoats: a tale of the Jersey ship and the Jersey shore in the days of the Revolution. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1900. c. 8+370 p. D. cl., $1.50.

While many stories of the revolution relate the acts of the leaders, this describes the life of the people. The incidents are almost without an exception true. The experiences of the prisoner on the old Jersey prison-ship are based on the personal recollections of a man who was long confined there.

Tuell, Hiram. and Fowler, Harold North. A beginner's book in Latin. Bost., B. H. Sanborn & Co., 1900. c. 11+288 p. D. (Students' series of Latin classics.) cl., $1.

Not intended to supersede the author's "First book in Latin," published a few years ago. This book is designed for those who expect to read fables, stories, the "Viri Romae" and various selections before beginning to read Cæsar or Nepos. It therefore differs radically from the "First book in Latin" in some respects, while retaining many of its characteristics.

Short stories having more or less to do with political life in Massachusetts. Contents: The amalgamated bill; A daughter of the state; A Copley boy; The second act of Carmen; The rehearsal; The Colligo Club theatricals; A small girl's letter; The arrival of the Ahwahnce; The girl and the Boss.

Way (The) preachers pray; with notes by one of them. Minneapolis, Minn., W: G. Smith & Co., [1900.] c. 103 p. sq. T. bds., 50 c.; artistic, 75 c.; pap., 25 c.

Desiring to know if the prayers of representative preachers kept pace as their sermons did with the advance in science, the editor (whose name is not given) secured verbatim reports of the prayers of ten clergymen in seven different cities, many of them of national reputation, and representing the following denominations: Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Congregationalist, Universalist, Disciples of Christ, and Independent. These prayers were submitted to the eleventh pastor, who was ignorant of the different names, who was to act as commentator. The prayers with the criticisms are given in his little book. The book opens with an essay by the editor, "Prayer in the light of modern thought."

Westbrook, Henrietta Payne, M.D. The actor's child; il. by Marianna Sloan. N. Y., P: Eckler, 1900. c. '74. 3-236 p. D. cl., $1.

Although adopted at his birth into the family of a childless minister and carefully reared until he himself becomes a minister, the actor's child falls a victim to inherited talents and tendencies. He is fickle and unscrupulous and spoils his own and other lives.

Weston Bros.' Belgian hare scrap book, no 1. Kansas City, Weston Bros., [1900.] c. 96 p. il. O. pap., 50 c.

Contains a variety of information about Belgian hares; origin and history of the Belgian hare; difference between the hare and the Belgian; how to care for it, feed it, breed it, etc.; how to house it and how to care for the young; with letters from different parts of the United States from persons raising Belgian hares; also recipes for cooking the Belgian hare.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 6, 1900.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PUBLISHERS' LETTER.

THE American Publishers' Association, in starting its endeavor to better the conditions of the retail trade has "opened the campaign" in a manner which gives the best possible augury for future success. Instead of laying down a plan of its own for which the adhesion of the retail trade is asked, it has frankly submitted to the retail bookseller a series of most pertinent questions covering the several mooted points of present difficulties and future remedies. While the outline of a proposed plan is indicated in the course of these inquiries the Association holds itself open to suggestion for any other plan or for the modification of this plan in any direction. We trust that every retail bookseller who receives this communication will answer it promptly, fully, and according to his best lights. It would be out of place at this writing to comment on these inquiries in such wise as to suggest to those replying to this communication possible lines of reply; for the great value of this scheme of inquiry will be in eliciting individual instead of generalized opinion. We shall confine ourselves, therefore, by way of comment, to pointing out two important considerations.

The first, not stated in the letter, but evidently underlying it, is that publishers and booksellers alike must recognize the rights and interests of the public by making the future price lower than the present nominal price, and more on the level of the actual selling price of to-day. In other words, the price of a book should be practically the present list price, with the usual 10, 15, or 20 per cent. off, now given to clergymen, teachers, and, in fact, frequently to the public at large. That is to say, a $3 book should be priced at $2.50, and a $1.50 one at $1.25, and a $1.25 book at $1—taking into account always that the public looks to a round price in quarter dollars for books. A reform which should disregard the interests of the book-buying public by overlooking this consideration would be handicapped at its start.

The second is that a 25 per cent. discount is as large as can practically be held by the retail dealer. It is quite true that in many retail bookstores, particularly in those of small sales, this does not more than cover the present cost of dealing in books, including the loss on dead stock or mistaken purchases. What the trade has suffered from already has been a large nominal discount, which has been really a small actual discount, and the only cure is in a moderate discount which shall strike the happy mean and be actually maintained; 25 per cent. off is a third on the actual investment of capital; this is none too much for the bookseller, but it is as much as he can practically hold. We make this suggestion because there will undoubtedly be a tendency on the part of retailers to press for a larger discount, and we trust the suggestions here made may be thoroughly considered by the retailers before answering this specific query in the negative.

It is, of course, to be remembered that the book trade has one element of cost out of relation with most other trades—that is the mistakes in purchasing which make dead stock, and indirectly increase the cost of books actually sold. The dry goods man, whether manufacturer, jobber, or retailer, of course makes his mistakes as to what goods will catch the public taste; but he can recoup himself over the bargain counter with much less loss than the bookseller can atone for his mistakes of judgment. The drug store is perhaps the nearest analogy with the book store. The apothecary must keep many drugs in the thousand and one glass jars which adorn his shelves which will not be demanded in prescriptions more than once or twice a year, if at all, and these must carry a high price and be balanced by adequate profit on the drugs of more common sale. But the drug store has to some extent met the fate of the book store, and from a like reason, namely, that the price of drugs, and later of proprietary medicines, was held so high that a break was inevitable, and the 25 cent nostrum has been sold down gradually to 20, 15, and 10 cents; if it had not been for the modern invention of the soda-water fountain the druggists would be in as bad form to-day as the retail bookseller. A fair profit, not an excessive one, is the surest business basis for success, and if the new method indicated in the letter of the American Publishers' Association, or some like plan, can put the retail book trade again on its feet, the sales of books and the profits of each retailer should be largely and wholesomely increased, while the public will be better served with its intellectual food.

CANADA has in its new copyright law solved a vexed local problem by asserting the principle of territorial division of copyright. The law is operative only when the copyright owner (presumably whether author or publisher) of a book copyrighted within the British dominions sells a license for the reprinting of the work in Canada. The duty is then laid upon the Minister of Agriculture, who is the Canadian copyright officer, to prohibit the importation of other than the Canadian edition except for library and other educational bodies and except when a private buyer requires from the Canadian publisher a copy of the English edition, which the latter is then required to import. This law, like other seemingly simple laws, puts upon the copyright officer an extraordinary burden of decision in the several exceptions scheduled. It is drawn with the purpose of avoiding conflict with the present English copyright law and with the imperial system, which is expected to become a law next year. If it works it will be effective in preventing the importations of editions made within the United States of English copyright books licensed for Canadian publication, and it will present to the English copyright owner, whether author or publisher, an inducement to territorialize the market with exactness, so that there should no longer be confusion in the publisher's mind as to whether a sale for the American market includes both the United States and Canada, or only the former. The law by its terms is specifically limited to books first published within the British empire, which is in line with the essential principle of British copyright.

WE print elsewhere a straightforward letter from Mr. James B. Pinker of London, the representative of Mr. H. G. Wells, setting forth the author's side of the controversy in the questions raised in an advertisement of Messrs. Street & Smith regarding the story of "Love and Mr. Lewisham." It is well to hear both sides, and in this case, so far as the controversy becomes at all a public one, it may have the result of awakening in readers a desire to judge each for himself.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE following circular has been sent to the retail trade by the American Publishers' Association in the hopes that a full consensus of opinion from all interested may be obtained upon the questions confronting the committee appointed to draft articles and propose measures for consideration by the Association:

NEW YORK, October 1, 1900.

In order to learn the views of Booksellers upon the question of prices and discounts, the American Publishers' Association would be glad to receive replies from the trade to the questions which follow, and it is requested that you answer them as fully as seems best to you. The Association desires to proceed in a conservative manner and to create as little disturbance as possible. Such books as would be subject to the rules of the Association to be adopted would, of course, be protected by copyright, and the rates would apply only on books issued after a fixed date, to be agreed upon.

1 Would a system of absolute net prices, to be obtained throughout the country, be satisfactory to you?

2 Should all new copyright books be issued in this manner, at net prices, or in the beginning would it be better to make only certain classes of books—such as perhaps the more serious books—net, leaving novels and some other popular classes to be issued at regular retail prices as at present?

3 In case such a system of net prices is adopted, would it, in your opinion, be possible to absolutely guarantee this price to every purchaser of the book at retail, whether belonging to the clergy, professional, or other class hitherto specially favored in the matter of discount (the only exception being in the case of libraries.

4 If the publishers should exact postage upon books sent by mail, would this give the bookseller all the protection he could fairly demand against direct supply from the publisher?

5 Will you kindly say whether in your opinion a discount should be made to libraries, and, if made, whether 10 per cent. is enough for the purpose?

6 From the net prices as indicated above it is suggested that to bona fide booksellers carrying a stock of books a general discount of 25 per cent. be allowed, some shorter discount than this being allowed to all other dealers in books, provided of course that the price is never cut.

Would this discount plan be satisfactory to you, and is the discount offered, in your opinion, sufficient for books that are sold to the public at the net prices?

Extra discounts would be offered for quantity purchases, but for quantity purchases only, and with a view to making the purchaser of the larger quantity insure himself a larger profit for his speculation.

7 Would you keep in stock such net books, the prices of which were maintained, so long as these books were reasonably in demand?

8 Would you agree absolutely to maintain such net prices, and would you agree in case the prices of such books were cut, not to cut them in return but to present the evidence to the Publishers' Association of such cutting of rates and allow the Publishers' Association thirty days in which to remedy the evil (i. e., the aforesaid cutting of prices) before cutting prices in rebuttal?

9 No penalty can probably be attached to the breaking of prices, excepting that the publishers will sell to dealers who break the prices of these net books, only at the net price and without discount, and all booksellers will be asked to agree to a similar provision, viz., that they will not sell to dealers who cut prices except at the regular list prices, without discount. Do you think this provision would be sufficient to prevent the cutting of prices, and would you agree not to sell to dealers except at the list price, if you were informed by the Publishers' Association of any dealer so accused of cutting the prices?

10 Are you willing to join a Booksellers' Association, with nominal dues, which shall undertake through its committees to inform the Publishers' Association in regard to cases where the price of any book is cut, the Booksellers' Association, if formed, to pay the expenses of its own committees for the collection of such evidence in all cases where requested to do so by the Publishers' Association?

While it may appear that the questions as outlined above indicate a certain policy to be followed possibly by the American Publishers' Association, I am instructed to say that the direction of such action is not yet determined, and if therefore you should desire to outline a policy for the conduct of the business looking to the control of prices in some way or other, whether by the limitation of discount or otherwise, that would in your opinion answer the purpose (viz., the improvement of the conditions of the retail book trade) the Association will be most glad to have such outline of a plan from you and will give it due consideration before taking action in the matter.

An early reply is respectfully requested and a full answer to each question by referring to it by number particularly desired.

Yours respectfully,

No. 66, FIFTH AVENUE.

CANADA'S NEW COPYRIGHT ACT.

THE following is the text of the new Canadian Copyright Act passed at the close of the September session of the Canadian Parliament:

1. If a book as to which there is subsisting copyright under the Copyright Act has been first lawfully published in any part of Her Majesty's dominions other than Canada, and if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Minister of Agriculture that the owner of the copyright so subsisting and of the copyright acquired by such publication has lawfully granted a license to reproduce in Canada, from movable or other types, or from stereotyped plates, or from electro plates, or from lithograph stones, or by any process for facsimile reproduction, an edition or editions of such book designed for sale only in Canada, the Minister may, notwithstanding anything in the Copyright Act, by order under his hand, prohibit the importation, except with the written consent of the licensee, into Canada of any copies of such book printed elsewhere; provided that two such copies may be specially imported for the bona fide use of any public free library, or any university or college library, or for the library of any duly incorporated institution or society for the use of the members of such institution or society.

2. The Minister of Agriculture may at any time in like manner, by order under his hand, suspend or revoke such prohibition upon importation if it is proved to his satisfaction:

(a) The license to reproduce in Canada has terminated or expired; or

(b) The reasonable demand for the book in Canada is not sufficiently met without importation; or

(c) The book is not, having regard to the demand therefor in Canada, being suitably printed or published; or

(d) Any other state of things exists on account of which it is not in the public interest to further prohibit importation.

3. At any time after the importation of a book has been prohibited under section 1 of this Act, any person resident or being in Canada may apply, either directly or through a bookseller or other agent, to the person so licensed to reproduce such book for a copy of any edition of such book then on sale and reasonably obtainable in the United Kingdom or some other part of Her Majesty's dominions, and it shall then be the duty of the person so licensed, so soon as reasonably may be, to import and sell such copy to the person so applying therefor at the ordinary selling price of such copy in the United Kingdom or such other part of Her Majesty's dominions, with the duty and reasonable forwarding charges added; and the failure or neglect, without lawful excuse, of the person so licensed to supply such copy within a reasonable time shall be a reason for which the Minister may, if he sees fit, suspend or revoke the prohibition upon importation.

4. The Minister shall forthwith inform the Department of Customs of any order made by him under this Act.

5. All books imported in contravention of this Act may be seized by any officer of Customs, and shall be forfeited to the Crown and destroyed; and any person importing, or causing or permitting the importation, of any book in contravention of this Act shall, for each offence, be liable, upon summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding $100.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN D. PARSONS, formerly State printer of New York, died at Albany, N. Y., September 28. Mr. Parsons was born in New Baltimore, April 27, 1815. In 1841 he formed a partnership with James B. Weed, a son of Thurlow Weed, the firm name being Weed, Parsons & Co. The firm continued until 1892, during much of which time it did the State printing.

MRS. GRACE THACHER PUTNAM, widow of Bayard Putnam, died suddenly on the 3d inst., at Jamestown, R. I. Mrs. Putnam was the daughter of Thomas Thacher, who was a prominent merchant in New York a number of years ago. Her husband, Bayard Putnam, was the fourth son of George P. Putnam, the founder of the publishing house of G. P. Putnam's Sons. Mr. Putnam was connected with the publishing house for but a short period. He was a scientific man, and for many years was connected with the United States Geological Survey, doing practical geological work in the West.

DR. SAMUEL SMITH PURPLE, a retired physician and former journalist, died September 30 after a short illness at his home, No. 36 West Twenty-second Street, New York. He was seventy-eight years old, and was born in Lebanon, Madison County, N. Y. He was graduated from New York University in 1844. He was a founder and one of the oldest members of the Academy of Medicine, and was a former president of the academy. Associated with Dr. Stevens Smith, he was for several years editor of the Medical Journal. His published works are: "The Corpus Luteum," "Menstruation," "Contributions to the Practice of Midwifery," and "Observations on Wounds of the Heart." Dr. Purple was well known as a collector of books and as an authority on the genealogy of New York families. His private library was ranked thirty years ago as one of the ten best private collections in this country, a standard which he took great pride in maintaining.

COMMUNICATIONS.

IN DEFENSE OF MR. WELLS'S "LOVE AND MR. LEWISHAM."

EFFINGHAM HOUSE, ARUNDEL STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W. C., Sept. 21, 1900.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

SIR: In your issue of July 7th there appeared an advertisement inserted by Messrs. Street & Smith, the publishers of Ainslie's Magazine. The advertisement relates how they bought from Messrs. Tillotson for $2000 the American serial rights of a story by Mr. H. G. Wells. When the MS. of the story reached the office they were disappointed to find (as they say) that "it was not a bit in the line of work that made the author's reputation," and having made a payment of $1750 to Messrs. Tillotson to be quit of the bargain they emitted this advertisement, attacking Mr. Wells and his novel.

In the circumstances, I trust you will allow me, as Mr. Wells's agent, to state the facts from my point of view. The American serial rights were sold by me to the publisher with the book rights. I explained at the time that "Love and Mr. Lewisham" was not a scientific extravaganza, but a subtle, dainty story dealing with the passion of love; that Mr. Wells, realizing that such a serial was only suited to certain periodicals, agreed to accept a lower sum ($1250) for the serial right than he is accustomed to receive. Moreover, before the arrangement was confirmed the publishers were given an opportunity of seeing the bulk of the story. The publishers disposed of the serial rights for the price they gave ($1250) to Messrs. Tillotson. It was from the latter firm Ainslie's Magazine purchased the story for $2000.

Apparently Ainslie's made no inquiry about the subject of the story, but took it for granted that Mr. Wells was a sort of mental sausage machine, turning out a uniform mixture in approximately equal lumps with a pleasing regularity. If Messrs. Street & Smith have a grievance it is certainly not against Mr. Wells, who was not responsible for the transaction with them, and knew nothing of it until long after it was completed. Messrs. Tillotson were not his agents, and he is not in any way answerable for their action. He has received only $1250, as agreed between him and his publishers.

I have found American editors and publishers so unfailing in their fairness and courtesy that I have no doubt they will do justice to my client in this matter so far as it concerns our methods of business. Shortly the story will appear in book form, and the American public will judge of its merits. I would only like to say that while Messrs. Street & Smith call it "a flaccid love story of the sweet girl graduate order, utterly unworthy of the author's reputation," the critic of the Daily Telegraph says it "will be considered by many the most fascinating piece of work he has done"; the Morning Post speaks of it as "a work of genius"; the Bookman says "it is worth reading many times. It is a new and beautiful parable of the eternal verity . . . a book of high hopes"; and Mr. Andrew Lang speaks of it as "a book to recommend to a friend." I am, sir, JAMES B. PINKER.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

J. FRANCIS RUGGLES, of Bronson, Mich., is editing a department of "Literary Chitchat" for the Bronson Journal.

Pen and Scissors is the title of a magazine for old-time amateur journalists, edited and published by William G. Snow, of Meriden, Conn. The first number dated September contains a number of interesting memories of a number of old-time amateur journalists, some of whom have become famous as editors and authors, or in other walks of life. The magazine is to be published occasionally only—possibly not oftener than once in twenty years, that space of time having elapsed since its predecessor, Pen and Press, was last issued.

The Monthly Magazine, which has just made its appearance, is a dignified and solid-looking periodical, printed in large type on substantial paper. It contains three editorial articles, covering twenty-five pages, on political questions followed by articles on various subjects, among them a chapter of an autobiographical sketch of more than ordinary interest by the Amir of Afghanistan; "The Influence of the Stage," by Mrs. Hugh Bell; "Art Before Giotto," with illustrations, by Roger E. Fry; an article on "J. E. B.," (the late T. E. Brown,) by A. T. Quiller-Couch; an essay on "The Loss of Time," by Miss M. E. Coleridge; and an ode entitled "The Nile," by the editor, Mr. Newbolt. Three chapters of Anthony Hope's serial story, "Tristram of Blent," represent fiction in the number.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE at Washington has printed "A Bibliography of the District of Columbia, being a list of books, maps, and newspapers, including articles in magazines and other publications to 1898," prepared by Wilhelmus Bogart Bryan, for the Columbia Historical Society, at whose cost the catalogue has been produced. (5+211 p. 8°.)

OTTO HARRASSOWITZ, Leipzig, announces a "Catalogue des livres parémiologiques, composant la bibliothèque de Ignace Bernstein," which contains a list of all the more important works and manuscripts that are devoted entirely or in part to adages, proverbs or "sayings" from the earliest times to the present, in all languages. The work, in two volumes, contains 4761 titles and is illustrated with facsimiles of the title-pages of the rarer books. It is intended by the owner of the collection for private circulation only; field. The catalogue is sold at $10.50 per copy.

THE "Catalogue of Indian Official Documents in the British Museum," long in preparation by Frank Campbell, of the museum staff, will be supplied in this country through G. E. Stechert, of New York, as sole agent for America. The catalogue represents the greater part of thirteen years' work by Mr. Campbell, who had completed it before his retirement from the museum last year. It is a volume of approximately 600 pages, dealing mainly with publications issued in India subsequent to the mutiny, and should be a remarkable revelation of the wealth of valuable material to be found in this little known field. The catalogue is sold at $10.50 per copy.

A. W. SIJTHOFF, Leyden, has published a catalogue of an interesting collection of books printed by Bodoni, the eminent Italian printer, and his successors. The titles are arranged chronologically, beginning with 1768—about eight years after Bodoni established himself at Parma—and ending with 1829, sixteen years after Bodoni's death. The catalogue lists 161 separate titles, and a supplement gives forty-eight more, published from 1773 to 1829. Bodoni was born in 1740 at Saluzzo in Piedmont, where his father owned a printing establishment. While yet a boy he began to engrave on wood. He at length went to Rome, and there became a compositor for the press of the Propaganda. He made himself acquainted with the Oriental languages, and thus was enabled to render essential service to the Propaganda press, by restoring and accurately distributing the types of several Oriental alphabets which had fallen into disorder. The Infant Don Ferdinand having established at Parma, about 1760, a printing-house on the model of those in Paris, Madrid, and Turin, Bodoni was placed at the head of this establishment, which he soon rendered the first of the kind in Europe. The beauty of his typography, etc., leaves nothing to be desired; but the intrinsic value of his editions is sedom equal to their outward splendor. His Homer, however, is a truly magnificent work; and, indeed, his Greek letters are faultless imitations of the best Greek manuscript. His editions of the Greek, Latin, Italian, and French classics are all highly prized for their typographical elegance, and some of them are not less remarkable for their accuracy. Bodoni died at Padua in 1813. In 1818 a magnificent work appeared in two volumes, folio, entitled "Manuale Tipografico," containing specimens of the vast collection of types which had belonged to this celebrated typographer, a copy of which is listed in these catalogues at $50.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY will publish shortly in The People's Library a limited paper edition of Egerton Castle's "Young April."

MEYER BROTHERS & Co., New York, will publish shortly in their series of book lovers' classics a volume on "Bibliomania in the Middle Ages," by F. Somner Merryweather.

G. & C. MERRIAM Co. call attention to a new edition of "Webster's International Dictionary," with 25,000 additional words, phrases and definitions, printed from new plates throughout.

AT the last moment Henry Holt & Co. have been obliged to change the title of Miss Marion Bower's novel, "The Puppet Show," to "John Thisselton," since it appears that a novel by the former title has already been published by Leonidas Westervelt.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK Co., not the Frederick A. Stokes Company, as inadvertently stated in last week's issue, are the publishers of Marchmont's "A Dash for a Throne" and "By Stroke of Sword," which have reached a sale of sixty thousand copies.

BELLAMY'S "Return of the Fairies" has been adopted as a reading book for the schools of a number of New England cities, including Boston, Springfield and Hartford. With such indorsement as this the book will undoubtedly command increased favor among holiday buyers this fall.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly a work on "England, Egypt and the Soudan," a comprehensive résumé of the later history of the Nile Valley from the time of Mahomet Ali to the death of the Khalifa, by the late H. R. Traill. They have nearly ready an attractive book for children, entitled "The Story of a Little Beech Tree."

RAND, MCNALLY & Co. have in preparation new editions of the complete works of Bulwer Lytton and Sir Walter Scott, fully illustrated; also, a special two-volume set of Ingraham's "Prince of the House of David," with twenty-six illustrations, and a frontispiece portrait of the author, the latter being reproduced from a rare daguerreotype.

THE BOOKSELLER'S LEAGUE will be entertained at its October dinner, to be held on the evening of October 10, by Nixon Waterman, author of "A Book of Verse," who will deliver a "Talk on Things of Pleasant Interest," and by Professor Isaac Taylor Headland, of the Peking University, who will talk on "Literature as an Element in the Present Chinese Reform Movement."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 10th inst. an elaborate edition of Browning's "Pippa Passes," with ornamental designs and illustrations by Margaret Armstrong. They will publish shortly Tolstoy's new book, "Slavery in Our Times," an inquiry into the results of modern industrialism, on which Count Tolstoy has been engaged for some months. The fundamental idea of the book is the negation of coercion.

THE NEVERNOD PRESS of Boone, Iowa, announces an édition de luxe of the Fitzgerald version of the Rubâiyât of Omar Khayyâm. There are to be only 250 copies—a square octavo with wide margins, printed on the heavy English hand-made deckel-edge paper, with uncut edges, and illuminated title page and initials. It will be bound in lemon-colored goat skin, hand sewed with raw silk, and the type—which is cast especially for the work—will be at once distributed.

J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY announce "Black Rock," by Ralph Connor; Sienkiewicz's "Knights of the Cross"; Tolstoy's "Resurrection;" a paper covered edition of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden"; Maurus Jokai's "A Modern Midas"; J. A. Conwell's "Our Nation's Needs"; M. Quad's "Mr. and Mrs. Bowser"; and "Some Great Cause: God's New Messiah," a book dealing with trust problems and other questions of the hour, by the Authors' Syndicate.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in press a novel by Alexander Black, the author of "Modern Daughters," "Miss Jerry," etc., to be entitled "The Girl and the Guardsman." The plot deals with love and war, the hero being a National Guardsman who volunteers for service in the Philippines. The story will be illustrated from life. They have also in preparation a timely work in "A Study of Christian Missions," by Dr. William Newton Clarke, the author of "An Outline of Christian Theology."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY has just ready in two handsome volumes "The Venetian Republic, its rise, its growth and its fall, 421-1797," by W. Carew Hazlitt, which has already been fully described in these columns; "The Reign of King Herla, the first of a series entitled The True Annals of Fairy Land, edited by William Canton and illustrated by Charles Robinson, and "Notes for the Guidance of Authors," a handy little volume prepared by William Stone Booth, connected with the editorial staff of the Macmillan Co.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish on the 15th inst. William Elliot Griffis's "Verbeck of Japan, a Citizen of No Country," which gives a true picture of the life of one of the most ardent makers of new Japan, Guido Fridolin Verbeck. They will publish at once a work by Chang Chit Tung, the Viceroy of Liang-Hu, prominent among the Chinese reformers, entitled "China's Only Hope." The book has been translated by the Rev. Dr. S. I. Woodbridge, and is furnished with an introduction by the Rev. Griffith John.

HARRY E. MORRELL, general manager, and Elbridge S. Brooks, editor, of the Lothrop Publishing Company, have been in New York for the past week looking after the interests of Irving Bachellor's "book of the season," "Eben Holden," which now bids fair to have a phenomenal sale. Within less than two months of actual publication this "forest-scented, fresh-aired, bracing and wholly American story of country and town life," as Edmund C. Stedman calls it, has jumped to its fortieth thousand, and the sale seems only just begun.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have ready "Her Majesty," by Elizabeth Knight Tompkins, author of "The Things That Count." It has already been dramatized for the stage by J. C. Clarke, and the play will shortly be produced in New York City. Part III. is now issued of Louis Creswicke's "South Africa and the Transvaal War," which will be in six volumes, to be sold separately. Other books now ready are "Education and the Philosophical Idea," by Horatio W. Dresser; "The Diary of a Dreamer," by Alice Dew-Smith; "The Papacy in the Nineteenth Century;" and "George Selwyn—his letters and life," edited by E. S. Roscoe and Helen Clergue.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have just ready The Valois Romances, including "Marguerite de Valois," "La Dame de Monsoreau" and "The Forty-five Guardsmen," by Alexander Dumas, newly translated, without abbreviation, and illustrated by Frank T. Merrill; an illustrated edition of Dr. J. R. Miller's meditation on the 121st Psalm, entitled "Unto the Hills"; "The Poetry of the Psalms," by Henry Van Dyke, a neat volume printed in black and red, at the Merrymount Press; and three new volumes in the Sunshine Library for young people—"A Christmas Tree Scholar," by Frances B. Dillingham; "Aunt Hannah and Seth," by James Otis; and "Divided Skates," by Evelyn Raymond.

JOHN LANE has just issued "The Birds of My Parish," by Evelyn H. Pollard, whose parish is Haynfords in East Anglia, stretching between pine woods and ground scarcely above water, thus furnishing the proper conditions for many varieties of birds. He has also ready "Marpessa," by Stephen Phillips, illustrated by Philip Connard; and "The Rhodesians," by Stracey Chambers, a book of short stories of English South African life. He will publish shortly a new volume of essays by Richard Le Gallienne, entitled "Sleeping Beauty, and Other Prose Fancies," among which are included essays on Shephen Phillips, the Browning love letters, and Tragedy and Mr. William Watson.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co. have in preparation a new edition of Charles Kingsley's novels and poems which will also contain the "Letters and Memories." This issue—which will be known as the Chester Edition—will contain a general introduction to the series and a shorter introduction to each story by Maurice Kingsley, the novelist's eldest son, who will also revise the notes in the "Letters and Memories" and add many of his own. To "The Poems" will be added a few which have been omitted in previous editions. The edition will contain a series of illustrations by Lee Woodward Zeigler and a number of pictures of Eversley Rectory and portraits of Kingsley which have never before been reproduced. They will publish shortly "Squash," the first of a series of books on polite athletics, by Eustace H. Miles. Other volumes in the series will be "Court Tennis" and "Racquets."

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready Anna Katherine Green's new detective story, "The Circular Study," which it seems was first intended for a drama. Several years ago the author, in collaboration with a friend, wrote the first act, and a synopsis of the play. It was cast in the romantic setting of the days of Napoleon. Other literary work intervened, and "it was with a sense of freshness," the author writes, that the old plot recurred to her, this time set in the surroundings of modern New York City. The advance demand for the story far exceeded the first edition. They will publish shortly a new volume by Dr. John Watson (Ian MacLaren), entitled "The Doctrines of Grace." The title may be taken as an index to the character of the contents. The book is made up of the best essays in serious literature that Dr. Watson has written since the publication of "The Bonnie Briar Bush."

DANA ESTES & Co. have ready the following supply of books of interest to young people: "The Substitute Quarterback," by Eustace L. Williams, which comprises exciting stories of athletic contests; three books of James Otis Kaler—"Boston Boys of 1775," "Fighting for the Empire," a spirited history of the South African War, and "The Armed Ship America; or, When We Sailed from Salem," the latest volume in the well-known Privateers of 1812 Series; the first of a series of Mexican war stories under title "For the Liberty of Texas," by Captain Ralph Bonehill; "In the Sweetness of Childhood," by Grace Hartshorne, containing poems of childhood and mother-love; "Paris in its Splendor," by E. A. Reynolds-Ball of London, a new volume in the Great Cities of the World series; and "Chatterbox" for 1900. Hezekiah Butterworth, that veteran instructor and entertainer, has in press for Estes & Co. "Traveller Tales of South Africa"; "The Animals of Aesop," written and illustrated in color by J. J. Moon, bids fair to be among the really popular books of the Christmas season.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just issued "A Life of Francis Parkman," by Charles Haight Farnham, who "speaks by the book," having intimately known the historian besides enjoying the co-operation of Parkman's nearest relatives; "Shadowings," a "few more queer stories from the Japanese," by Lafcadio Hearn; "Sigurd Ecdal's Bride," a romance of the North, by Richard Voss, translated from the German, by Mary J. Safford; a cheaper edition of Parkman's "The Oregon Trail," with the illustrations by Frederic Remington; "Sybaris, and How They Lived at Hampton," by Edward Everett Hale, forming a new volume in the uniform edition of Dr. Hale's works; "Tartarin of Tarascon, and Tartarin on the Alps," and "Port Tarascon, and Studies and Landscapes," two new volumes in the New Library Edition of Daudet's novels; the sixth thousand of "As it is to Be," by Cora Linn Daniels; also, "A Child of Glee," a charming book for young people, by A. G. Plympton, with illustrations by Harry C. Edwards.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 10th inst. Mr. Stedman's important new work, "An American Anthology," upon which he has been engaged for the last five or six years. It is on the same plan as his "Victorian Anthology," but is considerably larger. It includes virtually all American poets, representing them by their most characteristic poems, and the whole is preceded by a full and very carefully prepared introduction on American poetry. A large paper edition of this book is brought out in two octavo volumes, and it would seem as if they were peculiarly well suited for extension and illustration. Two other important books for publication upon the same day are the "Life of Theodore Parker," by Rev. J. W. Chadwick of Brooklyn, which, considering the subject and the writer, cannot fail to be an uncommonly interesting biography; also, "A Century of American Diplomacy," by John W. Foster, who has held many important offices in the diplomatic service of the United States as well as that of Secretary of State. Two additional volumes, "Studies in Romance" and "Outdoor Studies and Poems," are added to the Riverside Edition of the writings of Col. T. W. Higginson. A new book for children, by Eliza Orne White, bears the attractive title of "Ednah and Her Brothers," and being by Miss White is sure to be simple and entirely worth the attention of mothers. In the new Cabinet Edition of the poets appear the complete poetical works of Keats, printed from new plates, with indexes and numbered lines.

The collection contains an exceptionally large number of rare bibliographies and books for booklovers, works on journalism, theology, jurisprudence, geography, history, topography of the Netherlands, heraldry and genealogy, the sciences, belles lettres, fine arts, music, costumes, children's books and autographs, 2656 titles in all. The second part, containing chiefly modern books, will be sold later. A copy of the catalogue may be obtained from Lemcke & Buechner, 812 Broadway, New York.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents a line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office should either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

"Deals with the problems bearing on economic competition . . . which have arisen since 1893, particularly in the past three years."—ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.

"Pre-eminently a timely book."—NEW YORK TIMES SAT. REVIEW.

Every voter should have this "readable and stimulating" (Boston Advertiser) work

WORLD POLITICS (THE CHINESE QUESTION)

AT THE END OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY AS INFLUENCED BY THE ORIENTAL SITUATION

By PAUL S. REINSCH, University of Wisconsin. Citizen's Library. Half leather. $1.25 net.

"A timely volume, . . . focused upon the Chinese problem."—PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, N. Y.

"A scholarly and dispassionate discussion of the competition among the Great Powers for the control of the less advanced nations of the earth."—THE OUTLOOK.

"Timely and significant, a very interesting book."—NEWS AND COURIER, Charleston.

"The most important of all the works on the Chinese Crisis published thus far."
—MAIL AND EXPRESS.

MONOPOLIES AND TRUSTS

By RICHARD T. ELY, University of Wisconsin. Citizen's Library. Half leather, $1.25 net.

"The most discriminating book that has yet appeared on the subject of trusts."—THE OUTLOOK.

"A highly valuable contribution to an important subject . . . the best piece of work that Mr. Ely has yet done. In any case, all readers will be impressed by the perfect candor and scientific reserve which characterize the book."—AMER. JOUR. OF SOCIOLOGY.

"It is admirable. It is the soundest contribution on the subject that has appeared."
—PROF JOHN R. COMMONS.

THE VENETIAN REPUBLIC

ITS RISE, ITS GROWTH, AND ITS FALL

By W. CAREW HAZLITT 2 volumes. 8vo, $12.00

An entertaining narrative of the origin, rise, and extinction of one of the most remarkable communities the world has ever seen, not only in political structure, but in its inner life, with special chapters on social institutions, etc.

The Best New Novels

THE BENNETT TWINS

By GRACE MARGUERITE HURD

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"Their talk in general is as good as anything in 'Little Women.'"—BOSTON TRANSCRIPT.

These charming twins prefer New York and the study of art and music to banking and the life of a country town, and self-support for an entire season as proof of earnestness is made a condition of future help. It was a hard year but jolly, and the adventure is described with the liveliest humor.

THE SOFT SIDE

By HENRY JAMES

Author of "The Two Magics," "The Real Thing," etc.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"The tales are a rare pleasure for a book lover, and a much rarer achievement for a book writer."—NORTH AMERICAN, Phila.

"There are twelve stories in the book, . . . some whimsical and humorous, but all essentially human."
—THE PHILADELPHIA PRESS

A BREAKER OF LAWS

By W. PETT RIDGE

Author of "Mord Em'ly," etc., etc.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

A strong, graphic study with some bearing on the influences of criminal heredity, and the reforming power of a wholesome, honest wife, who never knows that her husband has been a burglar. Sudden temptation overtakes him, and at the last is a strong scene when he faces the question of how he, as a ticket-of-leave man, is to claim a wife who thinks him dead and, never knowing of his crime, is teaching their son to revere his memory.

A FRIEND OF CAESAR

A TALE OF THE FALL OF THE ROMAN REPUBLIC.

By WILLIAM STEARNS DAVIS

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"A story alive with human interest, aglow with passion, brilliant with quick-moving action, abounding in vividly told incident."—THE OUTLOOK.

NOW IN ITS 100TH THOUSAND

THE REIGN OF LAW BY JAMES LANE ALLEN

A TALE OF THE KENTUCKY HEMPFIELDS. Illustrated. Cloth, $1.50

It is a notable fact that, according to the data collected by THE BOOKMAN, Mr. Allen's new novel was the most widely sold book of the past month, not only in the United States, but also in England, where it is issued under the title "The Increasing Purpose," since "The Reign of Law" has already been copyrighted there as the title of a philosophical work by the late Duke of Argyll.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY, 66 Fifth Avenue, New York

Selling Points for the Retail Salesman

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

WE SUGGEST to the retail salesman that he emphasize this important trait of the novel: the essential, gentle, manliness of the hero, John Harkness. He is a gentleman to begin with, but it is under trying circumstances that true gentlemanliness shows itself best.

There is a delightful love-story in "The Gentleman from Indiana," that of John Harkness and Helen Sherwood, while the treachery of H. Fisbee furnishes the comedy.

The sketching of local characters is well done. The trials of a small country paper are amusingly told.

The White-Cap chapters are exciting and well sustained.

A good sentence from the book (page 8; read this to your customer): "Politics is the one subject that goes to the vitals of every rural American; and a hoosier will talk politics after he is dead." . . . But a stranger in Indiana may fall in love, and may make himself an enemy to the White-Caps, and may try for politics on a little nobler plan than the Indianian; but if he does all these, as did "The Gentleman from Indiana," he is likely to have a lively time.

To the retail salesman who has read "The Gentleman from Indiana" we hope these selling points will be suggestive, and to the one who hasn't even more so. To one who hasn't read it and wants a still better impression, we suggest that he read chapters I., IX., X., XI., XVIII., and XIX.

HOLMAN
Linear Self-Pronouncing
S. S. Teachers' Bible.

"In recognition of the originality of design and of its technical excellence." In concluding a lengthy review the jurors say: "For students especially this Linear Parallel arrangement is of marked value, as the ordinary method of presenting the variations of this character by parallel columns or marginal notes is extremely taxing to the eye and mind of the investigator."

The Only Real Parallel Bible Published.

It presents in simultaneous comparative view the variations in the texts of the two versions as well as all the differences in spelling, capitalization, italicization, parenthesis and punctuation. This text is used this year, by permission, in "Peloubet's Select Notes;" the "Westminster Teacher;" the "Baptist Teacher" and other leading S. S. Papers.

Universally endorsed by the most prominent religious papers and the leading clergymen of all denominations. Furnished at popular prices.

ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION

R. H. RUSSELL, 3 West 29th Street New York

Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s New Books

Ready Wednesday, October 10th.

AN AMERICAN ANTHOLOGY

1787–1899. By EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN. 950 pages. Large crown 8vo, gilt top, $3.00; cloth, full gilt, $3.50; half calf, gilt top, $5.00; tree calf, or half levant, $6.50.

This book is uniform with Mr. Stedman's "Victorian Anthology" in shape, design, and editorial detail. American poets are represented by their most characteristic poems, and biographical sketches of them are given. A full introduction, including a survey of the course of American poetry to the end of the century, lends much additional interest to this specially valuable book.

Large-Paper Edition, limited to 300 copies, produced in the best style of the Riverside Press. 2 vols. 8vo. Vol. I. with a photogravure of a group of eminent American poets; Vol. II. with a photogravure portrait of Mr. Stedman. Price, $10.00, net.

THEODORE PARKER

By JOHN WHITE CHADWICK. With two portraits. Crown 8vo, $2.00.

A biography of one of the most marked characters in American history. Theodore Parker was one of the great preachers of his time, and one of the prophetic reformers. He was regarded as a dangerous heretic, but is now gladly recognized as one who was merely in advance of his day, a robust believer in all the essentials of religion, and a most interesting personality. Mr. Chadwick is peculiarly qualified to tell the story of his great life, and he tells it with a fine sense of proportion, with perfect sympathy, and with uncommon literary charm.

A CENTURY OF AMERICAN DIPLOMACY

Being a Brief Review of the Foreign Relations of the United States, 1776–1876. By JOHN W. FOSTER, former Secretary of State for the United States. 8vo, $3 50.

Mr. Foster is exceptionally qualified to write a diplomatic history of the United States. He has been longer in the American diplomatic service than any other man except John Quincy Adams. He has served as United States Minister in Mexico, Russia, and Spain; has been special Plenipotentiary to Great Britain, Germany, San Domingo, China, and Japan; and has been a member of the most important high commissions sitting in this country for many years. His book is one of great value, is enlivened by many personal sketches, and is written in a popular style.

HIGGINSON'S WORKS

New Riverside Edition of the Writings of T. W. HIGGINSON. Rearranged and revised by the author.

Vol. V. STUDIES IN ROMANCE. Vol. VI. OUTDOOR STUDIES AND POEMS. 12mo, each, $2.00.

Two additional volumes of Colonel Higginson's works. Vol. VI. contains the outdoor papers which have been such a delight to Nature lovers.

EDNAH AND HER BROTHERS

By ELIZA ORNE WHITE, author of "When Molly was Six," "A Little Girl of Long Ago," etc. With four illustrations and a decorative colored cover. Square 12mo, $1.00.

Ednah Beverley is nine, and has three brothers younger and two cousins a little older. They make delightful visits to their grandmother near Boston, have a picnic at Nahant, go gypsying in Pennsylvania, and spend a winter in New York. They do many interesting things and have uncommonly good times.

NEW CABINET KEATS

Complete Poetical Works of JOHN KEATS. Printed from new plates, with Indexes to Titles and First Lines, and a fine portrait framed in an engraved border. Bound in a new and tasteful style, 16mo, gilt top, $1.00; half calf, $2.25; levant, $3.00; tree calf, $3.50.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO., Boston; 11 East 17th Street, New York.

Her Majesty.

By ELIZABETH KNIGHT TOMPKINS, author of "The Things that Count," etc. New edition, with new cover design. 12mo, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Her Majesty" has been dramatized for the stage by J. I. C. Clarke, an experienced and clever dramatist, and the play will shortly be produced in New York under the management of Mr. William A. Brady, with Miss Grace George in the title rôle. Miss Tompkins is also the author of several other delightful stories, among them being "The Things that Count," "Talks with Barbara," etc.

Education and the Philosophical Ideal.

By HORATIO W. DRESSER, author of "The Power of Silence," "The Perfect Whole," "Voices of Freedom," "Living by the Spirit." 12mo, $1.25.

The Diary of a Dreamer.

By ALICE DEW-SMITH, author of "Soul Shapes," "A White Umbrella," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

The Papacy in the Nineteenth Century.

NEW CENTURY LIBRARY.

Printed on the Thinnest Printing Paper in the World.

Dickens' and Thackeray's Works.

Pocket Size Standard Novels.

Old Size and New Size. Same Type.

The NEW CENTURY LIBRARY is a radical departure in the art of bookmaking. The largest novel is published unabridged in a single volume which is so small that it is equally suitable for the pocket or satchel. As a library edition it is handsome in the extreme. The size is only 4¼ x 6¼ inches, and not thicker than a monthly magazine. The type is as large and as easily read as that you are now reading.

The volumes are published monthly in three bindings: Cloth, $1.00 per vol.; Leather, limp, $1.25; Leather, boards, $1.50. MARIE CORELLI may hereafter be considered a soldier as well as an author. In she attacks hypocrisy and unbelief with a fervor that breathes more of the sword than of the pen. A book that will appeal to everyone; to the agnostic as well as the religious.

"The Master Christian"
